Like supernatural effervescence, praise will sometimes bubble up from the joy of simply knowing Christ. Praise like that is...delight. Pure pleasure! But praise can also be supernatural determination. A decisive action. Praise like that is...quiet resolve. Fixed devotion. Strength of spirit.

PLEASE PRAY ...

- ◆ For Rev. Vicci Davidson (Windsor Methodist Church) who has been diagnosed with Stage 4 cancer. Pray for a suitable treatment plan.
- ◆ For Boyn Hill as they write their church profile, engaging the church in the process.
- ◆ Pray for wisdom, safety and endurance for rescue workers and volunteers in Columbia as they continue assisting communities affected by the recent earthquake and searching for people who are trapped.

Thank You

Thank you to all those who were praying for me today as I underwent some pretty horrible invasive tests (to try and discover why I am anaemic).

Thankfully the tests were nowhere near as bad as I had feared. Also the results were quite conclusive that there is nothing concerning going on internally. They just need to find what's causing the anaemia now.

It was a real comfort to know folk were praying for me.

Consultation launched on town councils for Windsor and Maidenhead

Have your say on proposals which could reshape local governance in the Royal Borough.

We've launched a consultation on proposals to establish town councils for Windsor and Maidenhead. If you live in either area then let RBWM know your thoughts on the plans and what services you'd like to see devolved.

<https://engage.rbwm.gov.uk/consultations/community-governance-review/> to take part.

Knitting Group

All Saints Church Dedworth, Mondays, 2.00 - 3.00pm

The group currently meet to knit in the café studio. Bring your knitting or crochet and join them for some company, conversation and tea. All welcome!

How can I apply the Bible to my life?

We're not meant to enjoy the Bible like a hobby that's separate from the rest of our lives. Knowing and loving Scripture changes who we are. Michael Pfundner's new article examines the instructional nature of the Bible and gives us six ways we can bear fruit for Jesus.

For many years, local church congregations across Nepal viewed their role as purely spiritual, keeping their distance from the wider community.

The introduction of Church and Community Mobilisation training is addressing this challenge and giving practical solutions to break down barriers so that the church and community can work and live more closely together.

Pastor Samyong Thapa Magar of Lungrupa Baptist Church reflects on this past mindset: “Our church leaders taught us by saying, ‘Don’t be yoked together with unbelievers.’ We had a very narrow view of community involvement. We were never involved in any social work.”

In Taplejung, course participant Manmaya Limbu also shared a similar perspective, “Earlier, my mindset was that our focus as Christians should be only on spiritual matters and not so much on social matters. But this training has changed my dual view of the world as secular and sacred.”

Everything began to change when BMS and the Nepal Baptist Church Council (NBCC), introduced Church and Community Mobilisation training – known locally as Sangasagai, which means ‘togetherness’.

Sangasangai brings church members together for group Bible study, prompting them to look differently at Scripture. Through these studies, church leaders and members see that serving their community, caring for creation and loving people of all backgrounds is at the heart of the gospel and the Great Commission.

“This training has changed my dual view of the world,” says Manmaya. “Now I have come to know that God is the creator of the universe, including people and the environment. God loves them all equally and has a great concern for his creation. I must have the same view over what God has created. Our Bible study forced us to serve our community.”
